Self-rule & self-reliant nation

Looking for supply of materials from other countries to meet the major needs of the land's steadily expanding masses, particularly food grains, takes us back to the mid-60s when the physically diminutive but otherwise steely leader Lal Bahadur Shastri took over the reins of the government. Although his stint at the top was too short, the nation takes pride in his leadership under stressful conditions both within and outside the country. However, glorious references to his famed slogan Jai Jawan, Jai Kisan from various platforms are heard in subdued decibel, unlike the countrywide high-decibel celebrations of Gandhi Jayanti. Shastri's imaginative pleading with the country's diaspora to skip consuming cereals on one day in a week, which was widely talked about and also complied with have disappeared into the pages of history. But, his own norms of morality in public life even as he resigned as Union Minister owning responsibility for the Railway mishap of 1952 and his display of courage as he led the country in the victorious 1965 war are to be etched in letters of gold. His untimely death on January 11, 1966 at the age of 61 years left a big void in leadership of ideal character.

While Shastri has been bestowed highest virtually unanimous rating as a national leader, without even an iota of black mark, both as an individual and in high posts in the government, the nation owes to many other leaders in no small measure for their singular contribution in diverse fields enriching the country's social life as well as its economy. One is constrained to feel a sense of sadness in the context of the goings on.

Without meaning to deny credit to the present dispensation for addressing the challenges, the charisma of the past leaders that held sway over the masses is grossly missing, thanks to the unabated pastime of mud-slinging by the politicos into whose lap has fallen self-rule unasked. The column-space of virtually all dailies across the land is replete with reports that do not see the masses in good light, barring exceptions. The underlying philosophy of self-rule, namely placing the nation before self has been mocked at by those who have a vice-like grip over society, and also administration, leaving a yawning doubt on who is in control.

The issues of graft in public life and massive accumulation of tainted money in the custody of you-know-who are no longer subjects for debates in all circles. Ironically, self-rule and self-reliant nation, as topics of greatest urgency and importance, have got drowned by media reports of youth losing their life by resorting to selfie on an alarming scale. The nation is required to personify itself and snap a selfie.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Last Wednesday, when parts of Bengaluru were either submerged or floating after night-long rains, and no part too dry, Chief Minister Siddharamaiah called a meeting of his Cabinet. The Ministers discussed all proposals on the table, and cleared many. One of them was a bicycle sharing plan for the city. An interesting gift for people wading in waist-deep water and struggling to save their properties and themselves. None of the Cabinet members present, among them Bengaluru Development Minister K. J. George, found the topic of frequent inundation that the city has to put up with worthy of a mention, and neither was the almost total disintegration of the city's roads, footpaths and drains, partly due to rains but mostly due to bad planning and construction, important enough to merit a discussion. Welcome to Karnataka in the election season, where nothing matters but politics. — Kiran Prakash in The New Indian Express.

Ancient bacteria key to eternal youth

Berlin: A 45-year-old actress from Germany has been injecting herself with Bacillus F, a 3.5 million-year-old bacteria from the Siberian permafrost, to stop the effects of aging. The woman, who goes by the moniker Manoush, describes herself as a "human lab rat" for being the first person in the world to inject herself with Bacillus F, an ancient bacteria whose cells apparently show no signs of aging.

Bacillus F was first discovered by Russian scientists in the permafrost of north-western Russia, in 2009. The bacteria's DNA was unlocked in 2015 by a team of researchers who claim that unlike other cells in nature, Bacillus F cells show no signs of aging and could be the key to eternal youth. Manoush has apparently taken these claims to heart and has been injecting the bacteria into her bloodstream. As the procedure is experimental, no doctor could inject Manoush with the Bacillus F bacteria without risking to lose their license, so the actress decided to do it herself, under the supervision of a doctor and her friends.

First mosquito repelling smartphone

Seoul: Feel free to add mosquito-repellent to the already huge list of useful of smartphone features. South-Korean manufacturer LG has recently released the world's first mosquito repellent smartphone, which uses ultrasonic sound waves to keep the pesky bloodsuckers at bay.

Called the LG K7i, the innovative hand held was unveiled at the India Mobile Congress last week, and judging by early feedback, it's set to become a best-seller in mosquito-infested countries. The K7i has a very unique advantage – it features LG's "Mosquito Away" technology which can allegedly repel mosquitoes with the help of ultrasonic sound waves.

The best thing about Mosquito Away – which has already been integrated in other LG gadgets like TV sets and air conditioners – is that it uses no chemicals and requires no refills. Instead, it pumps 30KHz ultrasonic sound waves through a mesh speaker on the back of the phone to keep mosquitoes away.

Provide gadgets for Railway employees

Sir,

Railways is in the news for all the wrong reasons these days. Recently I travelled by Tipu Express to Bengaluru. The coaches were dirty and uninviting. When do we catch up with the swanky trains we see in the West and other developed countries?

As the train moved, a Ticket Examiner entered our coach and announced that it's a Reserved Compartment and we were asked to pay Rs. 15 extra as reservation charges. He had a Receipt Book and a columned sheet of paper tucked to a cardboard. Entering several ticket numbers on one receipt he handed it over to one passenger. While he made entries laboriously on the columned sheet of paper, it looked strange in these days of IT and Digital era.

Why are the Railways punishing its staff this way and sticking on to outdated methods? All they have to do is buy handheld gadgets like the ones the Electricity Meter Readers or the Police officials are using these days to issue the bills. A good employer should help its staff do their work with no headaches!

Group clash in K.R. Pet over political rivalry

Onlookers in front of TP Member B.N. Dinesh's house. Picture right shows SP G. Radhika along with other Police officers.

K.R. Pet, Oct. 5- Tension prevailed in Billenahalli village of K.R. Pet Taluk following a clash between two groups of JD(S) and Congress broke out yesterday evening. However, the Police managed to control the clashing groups. According to reports, the clashes took place over political rivalry where supporters of former Taluk Panchayat (TP) attacked the house of the current TP Member. Police said that at around 4.30 pm yesterday, supporters of former TP Member B.R. Kumar of Congress attacked the house of current TP Member B.N. Dinesh of JD(S).

The attackers broke window panes of the house and also damaged three cars that were parked in front of the house. Dinesh, his brother Puneeth, mother Manjamma and two others and Ravikumar, Manjegowda and Vijayakumar, all supporters of Kumar, have been injured and admitted to a hospital.

Sources said that MLA Narayanagowda had launched a series of development programmes at Billenahalli yesterday. Supporters of Dinesh were upset as their leader was not invited to the programmes though the MLA and their leader belonged to the same party. And also the MLA, after the programme, is said to have visited the house of Kumar's brother Suresh and invited Congress leader Kumar to join JD(S).

This led to heated argument between the supporters of Dinesh and Kumar, who hurled abuses at each other.

In the evening, Kumar's supporters gathered in front of Dinesh's house and pelted stones. Seeing the commotion, Dinesh and his family members came out and they clashed with the group that was outside the house. The Police were immediately informed and a team rushed to the spot where the clashing groups were lathi-charged and dispersed. The Police have beefed up security in the village. SP G. Radhika visited the village and requested the villagers to maintain peace.

According to Radhika, cases will be booked against whomever responsible. Dinesh, however, alleged that MLA Narayanagowda was causing a rift within the JD(S) by openly supporting Congress. He alleged that the MLA instigated the youths and that was the reason for the clashes.

It is 'Loot Ki Baat Sarkar' in Karnataka, says MP Shobha

Shobha

Bengaluru, Oct. 5- BJP State General Secretary and Member of Parliament Shobha Karandlaje accused the State Government of looting crores of rupees from the State exchequer in tenders floated for health-related schemes and Indira Canteens.

"This is nothing but plundering and Health Minister Ramesh Kumar is silent despite knowing that the fence is eating the crop," she charged.

Addressing a press conference in Bengaluru yesterday, Shobha charged the State Government with violating rules while awarding contract for the 'Mathru Poorna' scheme meant to meet the nutritional needs of pregnant and lactating women in rural areas.

"The State Government, headed by CM Siddharamaiah, must provide a platform to discuss the corruption that has been practiced by his Government since it assumed power in 2013. We have all the documents to nail the Government and the Ministers. Let them come for an open debate at the platform," she said.

"Mathru Poorna contract has been given to Veda Pharma which had quoted the highest bid. What is the secret behind this?" she asked. Besides, the Government has claimed the scheme as its own while it was totally sponsored by the Centre.

She accused the Government of calling for tender for Rs. 460 crore for issuing universal health cards without following Karnataka Transparency in Public Procurement norms.

"I am told Health Minister Ramesh Kumar is not aware of this contract as it is being directly handled by the Chief Minister. I wonder why Ramesh Kumar is silent on this issue," she said.

The Udupi-Chikkamagaluru MP described the State Government as 'Loot Ki Baat Sarkar,' (referring to 'Kaam Ki Baat' programme to be launched by Siddharamaiah to counter PM Narendra Modi's 'Mann Ki Baat') as the "spate of 'scams'" in the Government had overshadowed everything else.

She said it was easy for Siddharamaiah to be sarcastic about 'Mann Ki Baat' by claiming that he is running "Kaam Ki Baat Sarkar."

She demanded that Siddharamaiah Government furnish answers to the charges of corruption or order a CBI probe.

She charged that Rs. 434 crore that the Centre had allotted for Karnataka AIDS Prevention Society was recalled by the Union Government because of absence an action plan on the part of the State Government.

The BJP leader charged that there has been misappropriation of funds in the setting up of Indira Canteens in Bengaluru. There has been misappropriation of Rs. 20 lakh per canteen, she said.

Madikeri Dasara murder case cracked; three arrested

The trio were friends of the victim who procured ganja from Mysuru and supplied to them

Madikeri, Oct. 5- Kodagu District Police arrested three persons yesterday in connection with the murder of a youth during Vijayadashami procession in Madikeri recently. Police have identified the suspects as Abdul Roshan Rehman alias Roshan, 32, M.Z. Mohammad Rashid alias Rashid, 34 and Nazir alias Najju, 28.

The main accused Roshan allegedly stabbed Chandrashekar, the victim, and the two other accused helped him. Roshan told the Police he took revenge as the victim had earlier scolded his mother. All of the accused were friends of Chandrashekhar who had been procuring ganja (marijuana) from Mysuru and other locations and supplying it to them regularly for several years, said Kodagu SP Rajendra Prasad.

Roshan is a resident of Ganapathi Street and is a mobile technician by profession while Rashid, a resident of Mahadevpet, is a car driver. Nazir is a resident of Ranipet and is an autorickshaw driver.

Roshan was wanted in connection with several other crimes as well. He was subjected to punishment in Dubai for driving a vehicle without a valid license. He had also been involved in the theft of Rs. 33 lakh while working as a car driver for a former Principal of a College in Madikeri.

On the night of the incident, all the accused smoked ganja and were drunk. The incident occurred opposite Sri Kannika Parameshwari Temple, Mahadevpet, during the wee hours of the Dasara Festival.

The SP said that Chandrashekhar and the three accused were friends. The suspects had consumed ganja which was supplied to them by Chandrashekhar. They used to have heated exchanges between themselves. During one such fight near Kaveri Bakery, Chandrashekhar is said to have used abusive language which enraged them following which Rashid and Imran assaulted Chandrashekhar.

A Madikeri City Municipal Council Member intervened and stopped the fight, the SP said. The accused later hatched a plot to murder Chandrashekhar on the day of Dasara procession. They killed Chandrashekhar near Kannika Parameshwari Temple at 2 am.

Meanwhile, hundreds of activists belonging to various Hindu organisations protested in Madikeri yesterday by forming a human chain and demanded a high-level probe into the murder.

VHP District Unit General Secretary Narasimha alleged that Hindu activists are facing a threat from a few communal elements.

BJP District Committee General Secretary Shantheyanda Ravi Kushalappa said that the cases of attacks on Hindu activists have been on the rise. "There are reports that the ganja mafia is responsible for the murders. Police need to track the culprits," he said.

The Police have, however, clarified that the suspects were not part of any organisation. Seven people were subjected to investigation in connection with the case. After the murder, Roshan fled to Hassan and shaved his head to hide his identity. He was arrested from Kushalnagar bus stand.

Voices from the Grassroots

Democracy and Development

By Dr. R. Balasubramaniam

Democracy is increasingly being understood in India as elections and voting. The larger role of citizen engagement and the importance of several democratic institutions in ensuring good governance is rarely internalised by many.

Democracy can be meaningful and productive for the people only when institutions that are created by the legislative frameworks are allowed to operate and deliver on their mandate. Democratic institutions are necessary to maintain social order and human progress by creating or enforcing rules. Such institutions are truly effective only when they are manned by people with both moral authority and technical capacity to run them. These institutions have a great role in a particularly 'noisy' and 'unhealthy' democracy like ours. They are critical in an eco-system like India's where people are not generally known to follow rules.

Most democratic institutions play a 'regulatory-enforcing' role and their efficacy depends on the extent to which citizens believe that a reward or penalty will be forthcoming if they take or refrain from taking a particular action. Several other institutions are mandated to deliver on the mandate of human development driven by the local communities that they are expected to serve.

The institutions can deliver on their functions and role only when both the citizenry and the 'rule-making' legislators accord them the respect they deserve. The most evident expression of respecting an institution is by following the rules that these institutions are mandated to enforce.

Institutionalised rules and the beliefs enable, guide and motivate most individuals to adopt the behaviour associated with their social position. Another critical element for smooth functioning of democratic institutions is the credibility and reputation of these institutions themselves. One of the signs of good governance and human development in a State or country is measured by how effective and efficient are these democratic institutions. Going by this standard, India, as a country and many individual States, has different stories to narrate.

1993 saw the formal recognition of the grassroots democratic institutions by the notification and implementation of the 73rd and 74th Constitutional amendments passed by the Indian Parliament in December 1992. After these historic amendments, Panchayat Raj Institutions and Urban Local Bodies got legal and Constitutional status with far-reaching consequences.

Though several States implemented this three-tier Panchayat system in right earnest, gaps still exist in terms of empowering them adequately vis-à-vis the functions, funds and functionaries in the system. Grassroot bureaucrats are still grappling with the tensions that locally prevail due to vitiated political processes, indirect State controls, inadequate generation of local revenues and a demanding citizenry. Most of the local personnel rarely see the enormous opportunity in democratising development itself.

The recent decision of the Central Government to directly transfer federal funds to Gram Panchayats on the recommendations of the 14th Finance Commission is indeed a milestone in empowering the Panchayats and promoting democratised development. The Ward Sabhas and Gram Sabhas are now mandated to decide on their local development needs and appropriately use these funds.

While the spirit of this process is appreciable, the ground reality is far from what it needs to be. Most decisions are still led by 'circulars' issued by an overbearing State Government on how this money could be spent. Translational loss ultimately converts an advisory circular or guideline into an obligatory directive by the time it flows from the State Secretariat to the Village Panchayat. The result is that we are yet to see any meaningful development interventions led by local needs and local decision-making across most Panchayats in India.

One needs to appreciate that in a country like India where political doles are the norm and power being traditionally centralised with State legislators and bureaucrats, change will be slow to set in. Along with the empowerment of local governments, there has to be a sensitive and gradual 'dis-empowerment' of these traditional power centres for development to become truly democratic and people-led.

Moving away to the larger issue of governance at the national-level, one has to carefully view various national-level democratic institutions. Despite Parliament passing the law on Lok Pal and Lokayukta in 2013, we are yet to see the institution populated. The Prime Minister's crusade against corruption can find completion only when people with the right qualification, temperament and integrity populate it.

One finds it difficult to understand how such an important body is still left empty and non-functional. While several other Institutions like the Election Commission, CVC and CAG play a vital and significant role in ensuring good governance, the challenge to move away from playing favourites and appointing amenable people to head them continues to dog Indian polity in general.

The same challenges continue in populating other National and State-level Commissions mandated either by the Constitution or by legislative sanction. Appointments to these Commissions — whether it deals with Human Rights, Child Rights or Women's issues — are no longer based on the ability or the competence of the person being appointed. Proximity to the Chief Minister or Prime Minister or the ruling party, political affiliation and caste compulsions seem to have become major deciding factors.

Another critical contributor to democracy is academic institutions and oversight bodies for academia like the Indian Council of Social Science Research or the Indian Council of Historical Research, to name a few. Several of them are again populated and headed by people not necessarily because they have the competence or the qualification and experience but by people who are seen to be politically and ideologically aligned to the powers that be.

Heads of Government at the National and State-levels need to realise that governance will not happen accidentally. One needs to be deliberate, strategic and intentional about providing good governance and development to the people of the country or State. And democratic institutions serve the vital role of not only ensuring checks and balances within the system but also enabling a constructive relationship between the State and the citizenry apart from promoting local development. Apart from weakening these democratic institutions, trivialising them will further erode public faith in them and their functioning. And the loser will not just be the citizens but the entire country, including the political establishment.

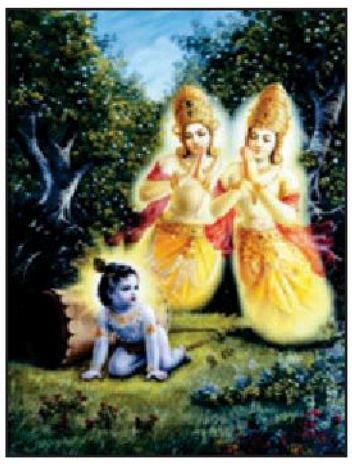
Damodara Deepotsava
at ISKCON Mysuru from today

Mysuru, Oct. 5- The International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON), Jayanagar in city, is celebrating a month-long festival of lights called "Damodara Deepotsava" during the auspicious month of Karthika starting Oct. 5 (today).

This festival is being celebrated in commemoration of an enchanting childhood pastime of Lord Krishna who agreed to get bounded by the pure unalloyed love of Mother Yeshoda to a wooden grinder mortar. Devotees celebrate this sweet pastime throughout the month of Kartika by offering special prayers and lamps to Lord Damodara.

Damodara Deepotsava will be inaugurated today at 7.40 pm and there will be a special bhajan till 8 pm. From 8 pm, there will be offering of lamps.

Deepotsava, also known as the festival of lights, is celebrated in the month of Kartika (Oct.-Nov.) every year. It is a month-long festival commemorating Damodara Leela, the sweet pastime of baby Krishna stealing butter and consequently being tied to a mortar by his mother Yeshoda. In Sanskrit, "dama" means rope and "udara" means belly. Damodara refers to Krishna who was bound with a rope by Yeshoda.



During Kartika month, devotees observe strict vows (Damodara Vrata) and worship Lord Damodara by offering a ghee lamp every day. It is said that by offering a lamp to Lord Hari in the month of Kartika one gets unlimited prosperity, beauty and wealth. Post-Dasara Car Fest at Hill Temple

MLA G.T. Devegowda and Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep were also present. Pramoda Devi Wadiyar sat opposite the temple watching the proceedings.

Assistants from the Mysore Palace were holding the Chathri (umbrella) and Chamara, which is all a part of the 600-year-old tradition. The Police Band and the Mangala Vadya was played and the Ratha made its way around the temple being pulled by many devotees who had gathered.

The personnel from the Reserve Police fired cannons that was carried on a small trolley, for about 12 times in front of the Ratha.

The Chamundeshwari Rathotsava that is held every year is the time when people make special vows. The newly-married couples, childless couples and unmarried men and women all gather in large numbers and shower flower petals, offer fruits, puffed rice and flowers. Even as they threw the flowers, the idol was protected by a screen made of jute, which stopped the offerings from hitting the idol covered with gold ornaments, thus preventing any damage to the deity.

Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar showering puffed rice on the idol of Goddess Chamundeshwari. Picture right shows a Reserve Police personnel turning away after igniting the cannon placed on a trolley.

The procession ended at 9.25 am. The devotees came in cars, on scooters, parked their vehicles near Devikere, and walked for nearly a kilometre to reach the temple. Many came on foot climbing the thousand steps. There were the usual short-eats like chakkuli, kodbale, nippittu sold by women who said that every year they come and sell these items, which the people enjoy eating.

Pramoda Devi decries intrusion of TV

Pramoda Devi Wadiyar, speaking to the media said, "I am very happy to participate in the Chamundeshwari Rathotsava. This is a tradition that the royal family has kept alive and of which I have been a part of since more than 40 years. We offer prayers for good rain, crops and the welfare of farmers and the people of the State."

However, she was very critical of the TV channels focusing on the "Seemanta" of her daughter-in-law Trishikha Kumari Wadiyar who is pregnant. "This is a very private affair of the family and it is wrong on the part of TV channels to telecast, and generate lot of publicity for what is completely in the private domain of the royal family," she said.

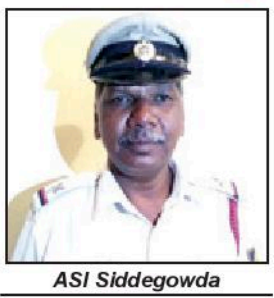
Reasons for Low Economic Growth

One Awdhesh Singh, a retired Indian Revenue Service Officer, has put this TRUTH on WhatsApp and is appreciated by all those who love India and wish for the qualitative improvement of our college education. Remember a leading industrialist bemoaning that a large number of our engineering graduates are unemployable? Now read this WhatsApp.—Ed

- Imagine that you are appointed a Principal/Director of a college which is notorious for cheating and poor quality of education.
- You find that most students cheat during examination with the support of teachers and do quite well in exams. The result of the college has been always more than 90% in recent years.
- You are a person with principles and hence you decide to totally eliminate cheating from the examination. You install CCTV cameras in all examination halls and take actions against the students and the teachers who are found engaged in cheating.
- The result is that cheating is totally stopped in examinations.
- However, the performance of your college dips drastically and less than 20% students pass. This has been the worst performance in the history of your college.
- You now face flak from all sides.
- Students are angry because they failed due to your strictness.
- Teachers are angry because their track record got spoiled due to you.
- Trustees of college are angry because the result of their college has taken a beating under your charge.
- THIS IS WHAT IS HAPPENING IN INDIA RIGHT NOW.

Ambulance gets priority over CM's convoy

Public praise Cops for their gesture



ASI Siddegowda

Mysuru, Oct.5 (RK&NNN)- Kuvempunagar Traffic Assistant Sub-Inspector Siddegowda and Head Constable Ramesh were the unlikely heroes when they stopped the vehicle of Chief Minister Siddharmaiah and the convoy following it and let a ambulance pass.

This timely action of the Cops came in for much praise from the public who were witness to the incident. It is very rare that Traffic Cops manning the traffic signals stop the vehicles of VIPs. Their normal reaction is to come to attention and salute the person sitting in the back seat of the VIP car. However, on Oct.3, when Chief Minister Siddharamaih and his followers who were all driving on Ring Road around 7.30 pm after a Congress Convention in Hootagalli, approached the Bogadi Ring Road junction, an ambulance with sirens blazing was following them.

The two Cops Siddegowda and Ramesh, who were manning this signal to control the traffic and allow the VIP vehicles to pass, realised the gravity of the situation and decided to use the discretion at their command. They immediately asked the vehicle carrying the CM to pull over and the convoy was also forced to follow suit.

The ambulance carrying a sick person was allowed to pass first. Speaking to Star of Mysore, Siddegowda said, "We decided to take the decision on the spot as the ambulance with siren should always get precedence over any VIP movement. This in fact is what we have been taught in our basic training course of one year that we undergo after we are selected to the Police force. We had to take a split second decision and hence, we did not have time to take the permission from our superiors."

There should be more such Police Officers who follow the conscience of their profession than bow to the pressures of the higher-ups or VIP culture.

Even CM Siddharmaiah should laud the duty-bound Cops' act.

It may be recalled here that in a huge setback for MUDA's ambitious plan of allotting sites in R.T. Nagar, farmer Pachhegowda from Kergalli Survey Number 115/9 and three other land owners had brought a stay from Karnataka High Court against distribution of sites claiming that they were paid inadequate compensation for their lands.

Questioning this, MUDA had moved the Supreme Court, which directed the Karnataka High Court to resolve the issue. As per SC direction, the Karnataka HC took up the case and cleared the site distribution in April this year. There are 394 Corner Sites (CS), 1,764 Intermediate Sites (IS), and 114 Odd Sites (OS) out of the total 2,270 sites.

A team of MUDA officials and staff launched cleaning operation of the vast area this morning and signboards displaying site dimensions and locations were being painted. According to MUDA officials, the 1,800 sites will be distributed based on caste, seniority, number of attempts and age of the applicants.

All the beneficiaries have been identified and to prevent confusion and chaos, the sites will be allotted through lottery system. "The CM will initiate the lottery picking process and allotment letters will be given away on-the-spot. We will make arrangements at the venue on Oct. 16," a MUDA officer told Star of Mysore.

The beneficiaries have been informed about the Oct. 16 event and boxes containing the lottery slips of various site dimensions (20x30, 30x40, 40x60 and 50x80) will be placed at the venue and after the CM's programme, beneficiaries will be asked to pick the lottery slips themselves, the officer added.

Allotment letters along with lease-cum-sale-agreement will be given on the same day and the Khata will be registered. "Title Deeds will not be given till the 10-year lease period expires preventing the beneficiaries from selling the sites. At any given point of time within the mandatory 10-year lease period if the beneficiary has to sell a site, he/ she must pay 50 percent penalty at the prevailing market rate (according to the guidance value fixed by the Sub-Registrar) at the time of the sale," the officer explained.

UGC recognition sought for KSOU

Mysuru, Oct. 5 (PM&KS)- Urging the Centre and the State Governments to take steps to get UGC recognition to Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) in city, members of Paduvarahalli Srigandha Yuvakara Sangha staged a protest in front of Gandhi bust opposite City Law Courts Complex here yesterday.

Alleging that violation of rules by previous Vice-Chancellors had led to UGC de-recognising KSOU, the protesters demanded criminal cases be initiated against such erring VCs.

The protesters demanded intervention of both the governments to save lakhs of students, lecturers and professors of KSOU.

Mayor ko gussa kyon aatha hai?

To file defamation case for being mocked at on social media

Mysuru, Oct. 5 (RK&BCT)- Mysuru's First Citizen M.J. Ravikumar will file defamation cases against people who are mocking at him on social media over his 'lack of proficiency' in English. A video clip that is being circulated in social media shows the Mayor explaining Dasara arrangements to a TV reporter.

M.J. Ravikumar

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Ravikumar said that people in the social media have passed insinuating comments at his language. "In doing this, people have insulted the post of Mysuru Mayor. If the comments were directed against me, I would not have reacted but I am hurt as the insults are directed at the Mayor's post. I will file defamation cases against people who are doing this," he said.

He said that he would formally lodge a complaint and identify the persons behind circulating the video.

When told that he could have spoken in Kannada, he said that the TV reporter insisted that he speak in English. "I have done nothing wrong. I am trying to speak in English, a new language. I told the reporter to ask questions in Kannada. But she insisted that I speak in English as it's an English news channel," he said.

Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Castrated for God

In a Guru's Ashram, I saw a young, beautiful girl who had completely stripped herself of her gender and sexuality: shaven hair, ash on her face, baggy clothes, bare feet, and complete subservience to her Guru, who she referred to as 'master'. The men were similarly shaven, and dressed. This was supposed to purify them, and help them commune with God via the Guru.

I remembered a Japanese story of a Buddhist nun, who was determined to attain nirvana (oblivion, in Sanskrit), the highest state of wisdom in Buddhism. She, therefore, burnt her face so that men would not bother her and she would be free to live a life of contemplation, meditation and purity without distraction. I also remembered the tale of the Nayanar matriarch, Karaikal Ammaiyar, who turned herself into a gaunt hag so that she could be one with the troop of ganas who follow Shiva, unchained to the delusions that come with a beautiful woman's body.

These stories glamorise the mutilation of the human body. In the Bible, Matthew 19:12, we learn, 'For there are some eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and there be eunuchs, which have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.' Eunuchs here refer to castrated men, men without testicles, the gonads that produce the male hormone. Here, castration is seen as a technique to get closer to God. It is said that Origen, a Greek philosopher and ascetic of the Early Christian Church, castrated himself to get closer to God, though he was never made a saint as some of his ideas contradicted with some of the leading Church Fathers such as Paul and John.

The idea of castrating oneself ritually for the sake of a divine being, or for divine communion, was known in ancient Mesopotamia. Roman writers speak of Galli, priests of Cybele, who castrated themselves publicly and offered the Mother Goddess their testicles as offering. A section of Indian transgenders, as part of accepting their feminine essence, castrate themselves in the name of the rooster-riding Bahucharji-mata, an act known as 'nirvana', and call themselves Mangal-mukhis, as they are considered free of sexual desire, hence auspicious and pure, capable of attracting good fortune in the lives of those whom they bless.

So it comes as no surprise to learn of rumours that many male inmates of Dera Sacha Sauda were castrated on the orders of their Guru, to ensure their purity. The irony is that the Guru himself has been convicted of raping the female inmates, who were known as sadhvis, which means the simple ones, expected to be free of desire and ego, which is translated often in Guru-doms as submitting to the Guru's will, even his sexual desire.

This body mutilation as part of faith stems from the idea that the body, the vehicle of desire, is a fetter (as per Hindu, Buddhist and Jain ascetic traditions) or a sin (as per Christian ascetic traditions). While men's hormone-producing testicles can be easily removed, it is tough to remove a woman's hormone-producing ovaries. So, while Gurus can strip men of their maleness, it is tougher to strip women of their femaleness. The best they can do is de-sex them: shave their heads, cover their bodies, but they still remain temptations to the un-castrated male, the Guru especially. Which is why perhaps, in Buddhist manual for monks, more rules were made for the nuns than the monks, who were forbidden to castrate themselves, unlike many Hindu mendicants who simply crushed their genitals.

Cricket Talk

T-20 cricket is akin to fireworks during Diwali. In local connotation we term T-20 as "CHINNI-KOLU" game where we witness "READY-BEEEES" format. So, with the traditional Diwali round the corner, this T-20 series we hope to enjoy "CRACKERS" show rather than "PUSS" show and blaming it on inclement conditions. The momentum of ODI victory is sure to rub into T-20 matches on the 7th, 10th and 13th. Beyond doubts, the 1.32 billion of the country looks forward to a white wash.

But, beware. OZs have the capacity to strike back. Seniors are a part of IPL in long years. They are accustomed to Indian pitches and weather conditions and therefore have the potential to strike in T-20 format. A wounded tiger is more dangerous. Lean patches are common to players and teams. The statement 'Form is temporary and class is permanent' cannot be ignored while analysing the capacity of OZs. The chocolate faced skipper — and a find of the IPL — Steve Smith is an extraordinary batsman. On his day, Finch can destroy any bowler. Warner has an aggregate of over 4,000 runs at an average of 40. Maxwell has a strike rate of 164. Individually they have all excelled in IPL; over the years. They need to gel as a unit to make the series competitive. We need good contest — winning or losing notwithstanding.

Here arises the sharp distinction between 'Conviction' and 'Hope.' Whereas Virat can dream of a whitewash with conviction, Smith will hope to carry at least one trophy back home. Virat has 90*, 59*, 50 and 82* in the last 4 innings against the OZs and has every reason to enjoy high degree of confidence. His aggression will be the driving force for India as they seek to continue their dominance. For Australia, it will take a lot to reverse their losing trend. As is the case in every encounter — be it country side cricket or international encounter — the opening partnership is the key to the team's success. Warner-Finch combo should ensure solid opening partnerships.

Our team has inherent strength. Combination of experience and youth is well-blent. In the midst of this, it is hard to accept any logic for the inclusion of Nehra and Dinesh Karthik in the team. At 39, Nehra may raise brows but we have seamers who are doing it. Dinesh has the class but is highly inconsistent. Blooding in youngsters will do more good in preparation for 2019 World Cup. I wish rationality crept into selectors thinking. Core competence in both batting and bowling is extremely good in us. That said, I would bet a 2-1 victory to the men in blue.

Warner and Finch will provide the solid foundation. Smith will reinvent himself. Maxwell will entertain masses with huge sixes, their pacers will continue to struggle a bit.

On our side, Rohit is likely to carry the momentum forward, Shikar will struggle a bit on account of lack of continuity, Virat is more likely to remember his last 4 records of T-20 against the OZs; than the ODIs; and improve on his records, Hardhik, Manish and Kedar look convincing, MSD is not likely to bat much, pendulum of Bhuvi-Bumrah combo will swing between penetration and runs. Chahal-Kuldeep will find edges, Hardhik will provide crucial break through and Kedar's 5 foot 2 inches frame in low arm action will continue to amuse the spectators, TV viewers and shock the OZs; unless they dance down and smack him.

On an average, we may expect scores between 170 and 180; provided wickets are hard and pacy. If we find early puffs, we may reconcile to 160 odd. The Nation wishes Virat and Co. all the best. Best to Smith and Co. too to resurrect and provide good contests.

Illegal mining at Baby Betta

Plaint against 19 Officers

Mandya, Oct. 5- Right to Information (RTI) Activist K.R. Ravindra has approached Karnataka State Human Rights Commission (KSHRC) against alleged illegal stone quarrying at Baby Betta Forest Range near Pandavapura.

In his complaint, Ravindra has accused mining owners of violating human rights and mentioned that two people have died due to blast in the mining recently and several others are injured. But only one death case has been reported so far. He said that one minor boy who was employed as a child labourer has been injured seriously in the blasts.

Mining owners have been threatening the local people and also trying to evict them from the place for opposing the illegal activity. Due to dust from mining, the water in Krishnaraja Sagar (KRS) Dam has been contaminated and it is also a violation of human rights, he has mentioned.

He has stated that mining is illegally carried out by influential elected representatives at Baby Betta Amruth Mahal Kaval Survey Number 1, Honaganahalli Survey Number 127 and Survey Number 80 Chinakurali Hobli of Pandavapura. In all, 2,016 acres of forest land has been targeted by illegal miners who have the backing of rowdy elements and corrupt officers, Ravindra has stated in his complaint.

Ravindra has mentioned that rampant corruption and the hand-in-glove attitude of the officials were responsible for illegal mining.

He has named 19 officers including Chief Secretary to the Government of Karnataka Subhash Chandra Khuntia, officers Subhash Chandra, Jayanthi, Sasikanth Senthil, Mandya DC Manjushree, ZP CEO Sharath, SP Radhika and ASP Lavanya in his complaint and has requested the SHRC to direct the officers to take action against the corrupt.

Ravindra has urged the Commission to take immediate and suitable action against mining owners. He said that despite complaints to Karnataka Governor, Lokayukta, Chief Secretary to GoK, no suitable sanctions have been imposed against the violators and he was forced to approach the Human Rights Commission.
